

New materials based on plant, metal, chemical, or nano technologies make possible many of the technological advances of our age. This conference will situate new materials within the commercial, institutional, or social contexts that led to their development.

The Chemical Heritage Foundation and Hagley Museum and Library present

The Life of New Materials

November 17 and 18, 2011

November 17 - Chemical Heritage Foundation
315 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, PA

November 18 - Hagley Museum and Library
Soda House, 298 Buck Road East, Wilmington, DE

The event is free and open to the public.

Event program and registration at <http://bit.ly/chf-2011-11>

For more information, contact Carol Lockman at (302) 658-2400 or clockman@hagley.org.

Image: CHF Collections, Photograph by Gregory Tobias

SUPPORTED IN PART BY

Philadelphia Area Center
for History of Science